MEMORANDUM FOR: Acting Director of Central Intelligence

SUBJECT : Military Personnel Requirements, Fiscal Year 1965

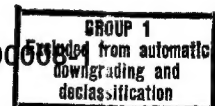

REFERENCE : Memo dtd 22 Jul 64 to DCI fr Norman S. Paul, subj:
CIA Military Personnel Requirements, FY 1965

25X1 1. In reviewing the reply from Norman Paul notifying us of their approval of our requirements for [] military personnel during Fiscal Year 1965, you commented that this seemed "like quite a sizeable draw-down from the military" and asked that we take a "jaundiced look" at the slots. The Director of Personnel is conducting a careful review of all military personnel and positions in the Agency and will respond to the question of need for these people and positions in conjunction with his response to Action Memorandum No. A-410. Meanwhile, I thought you might be interested in a brief summary and explanation of the present figures.

2. By tacit agreement with the military services we always pad the annual estimates of military personnel we will require by a factor of ten per cent. This gives us a cushion and eliminates the need to go back with a detailed justification if we have an urgent and unforeseen requirement during the course of the fiscal year. The services prefer that we do it this way since it does not affect their ceiling and because it is complicated and difficult for them to increase the numbers they can make available after their ceilings, manpower plans, and budgets have been fixed for the year.

25X1 25X1 3. Our current estimate [] represents a reduction of 150 from the estimated requirements [] we submitted to the Department of Defense during the previous fiscal year. It includes positions for the [] military personnel we now have on board; about 100 vacancies we would like to fill; replacements for those [] who will be returning to their parent services upon completion of Agency tour this year; and a ten per cent cushion.

25X1 4. In short, the system is padded as a matter of convenience to the military services as well as the Agency in order to eliminate red tape without costing either organization anything in dollars or ceiling. We have reduced our requirements by [] and expect further reductions next year. The number we request each year includes those we already have, replacements for those who will be returning to their parent services, and the very few others requested to round out the requirements we have not met with [] who are on hand.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Central Intelligence

SUBJECT : Central Intelligence Agency
Military Personnel Requirements, FY 1966

1. This memorandum is for information only.

2. The various Agency offices submitted estimated military personnel requirements for FY 1965 [redacted]. Consistent with past practices and the preferences of the military departments, we added a 10 per cent cushion to preclude renegotiating for additional authorizations to accommodate special projects.

3. The approval of the [redacted] authorizations by DOD does not obligate the Agency to encumber positions within our personnel ceiling until a military member is formally detailed. The military departments are reimbursed only for the actual number of military personnel detailed to the Agency. From the military department position, their ceiling is increased by the number we request; we do not affect the ceiling established for the operation of their respective departments.

4. The present on-duty strength of military personnel is over [redacted] Action Memorandum No. A-410 directs that efforts be made to reduce the on-duty strength by [redacted]. This action, coupled with the present economy drive, makes the [redacted] figure appear quite large. It is anticipated that the FY 1966 figures will be considerably lower than the present authorization for military personnel.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Personnel

Emmett:

Colonel White has noted General Carter's comments regarding the military personnel requirements for FY 1965 and has asked that you prepare a reply. I assume the number is somewhat larger than the anticipated need at the request of the Military Services because whenever there is a need for unforeseen expansion it is difficult for the Services to supply more personnel than the number approved at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Action Memorandum No. A-410 may make the spread between approved requirements and on-duty strength more pronounced this year. I believe we should take this into account in replying to General Carter.
